Created in 2021, the annual Award honors emerging athletic trainers who have one to five years of experience in the sports medicine profession. It recognizes recently graduated athletic trainers in the United States who have not yet reached a senior or chief-level position but have a strong career trajectory with the potential of forward advancement and appointment at the highest levels of the profession.

Nominated by their peers, three finalists will be selected by a panel composed of athletic trainers and industry experts in the field. Together, the committee members bring experience from an athletic training perspective of broadly diverse size, type, and geographic distribution.

Nominations for the 2025 Rising Star Award must be submitted here by March 5, 2025. To learn more about nomination guidelines, visit this link. Three finalists will be selected on March 11, 2025. Once finalists are chosen, voting for the 2025 Rising Star Award winner will be open to the public on Henry Schein's Facebook and Instagram pages from March 19, 2025, through March 25, 2025. The 2025 Rising Star Award winner, who will be notified on March 27, 2025, will receive a handheld muscle stimulator and a Medi Kit™ MULL Froller bag filled with athletic training supplies.

"For five years, Henry Schein has had the privilege of spotlighting promising athletic trainers through the Rising Star program," said Eric Kearns, National Sales Director of Henry Schein Medical's Athletics and Schools business. "The talent and dedication of each individual throughout the years has been incredible to see, and we're honored to play a role in showcasing the vital role of athletic trainers. It is crucial for the profession as a whole to actively support athletic trainers and invest in their continued growth."

Last year's Rising Star Award was presented to Aline Valiengo, Head Athletic Trainer and Director of Sports Medicine at Coconut Creek High School in Coconut Creek, Florida. Click here to learn about Ms. Valiengo's dedication to the profession.
