Ambiq Captures Three 2022 TITAN Business Awards

2022-10-18

Ambiq® won three new awards in October from the International Awards Associate (IAA.) We received Platinum in Technology/Science and Gold in both the Most Innovative and Engineering categories. These recognitions are a true testament to Ambiq's contributions and successes in achieving energy efficiency critical to IoT edge devices, especially battery-powered mobile devices.

The highly regarded Ambiq Sub-threshold Power-Optimized Technology (SPOT®) platform makes it possible to enable artificial intelligence (AI) everywhere by reducing the total power consumption of devices' operations without impacting or sacrificing performance and user experience.

"Ambiq's Engineering Team has been growing, and for over a decade, we have consistently delivered record-low-power technology platform and processor solutions for mobile devices," said Charlene Wan, VP of Branding, Marketing, and Investor Relations of Ambiq. "We are humbled and honored that our SPOT platform is recognized for its breakthrough performance and contribution to the semiconductor industry."

The TITAN Business Awards' primary goal is to acknowledge the achievements of entrepreneurs and organizations globally. The competition does not differentiate between small or big players in the market and honors excellence impartially on the level playing field they have created. Only those who qualify can become honorary TITANs.

"Despite this being the second season for this competitive year, we received a staggering number of entries, all of which demonstrated remarkable qualities of excellence," Thomas Brandt, spokesperson of IAA, remarked. "It is particularly motivating to see so many parties still actively engaging in excellent practices in their businesses. It really does come through clearly from their submissions."
